An Insider's Look at Napa Valley

Volume 16, Number 27, July 12, 2021

15th Festival Napa Valley starts this week

The 15th Festival Napa Valley begins this week with concerts from chamber music and symphony to rock, pop and jazz.

For some reason, probably because some of its events are so elegant, many people think Festival Napa Valley is expensive and exclusive. Nothing could be further from the truth, and each year it becomes more accessible.

This year they are presenting free concerts in the amphitheater at the CIA at Copia at 11 a.m. every day from July 13 through July 24.

Festival Napa Valley's Blackburn Music Academy musicians join Frost School faculty and guest artists for an admission-free chamber series Wednesday, July 14 through Tuesday, July 20 and Saturday, July 24 at 11 a.m. at Jackson Family Wine Amphitheater at CIA at Copia.

Walk-up seating is available as space allows.

You can find the details at festivalnapavalley.org. Reserve with the Festival Napa Valley Box Office via boxoffice@festivalnapavalley.org or 707-346-5052.

Tickets to the evening concerts at Charles Krug and Copia are only $15.

Here are the evening concerts this week:

- July 16: Opening night with Lisette Oropesa at Charles Krug Winery (sold out)
- July 17: Saturday at the Symphony at Copia. The program includes the West Coast premiere of "Chrysalis Extended," written by the festival's composer-in-residence and 2019 Miss America Nia Imani Franklin, and a new concerto by Cuban pianist Aldo López Gavilán. Concerts are at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Of course, they also have patron dinners and special events that help pay for the free and discounted concerts. One example is the Arts for All Gala headlined by Jennifer Hudson. It takes place on July 18 at Nickel & Nickel.

2021 Classical Arts Film Festival selections made

The Jarvis Conservatory has selected the films for the fifth annual celebration of International Classical Arts in film Aug. 26 to 28.

You can see the selections at www.jarvisconservatory.com. They will be shown in four film blocks over three days. Tickets are $15 per block. Save 20% with the festival pass.

Wine tasting and drinking

Vine Star Wine Bar opens in St. Helena

Vine Star Wine Bar has opened in the former Yao Wine tasting room in south St. Helena. The building and business are owned by Jay Behmke. It will be open on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, from noon to 7 p.m. for the foreseeable future.

It operates with a Type 42 Wine and Beer Public Premises permit, which is typically used to operate as a bar serving wine, beer, other non-alcoholic drinks, along with a food menu, but not full meals.

Vine Star Wine Bar will also be a wine shop and espresso bar, serving coffee, pastries and other breakfast foods from morning to early afternoon. It will offer other baked goods, chocolate, ice cream and desserts, too.

The property does not have a commercial kitchen, and they will not prepare food on site but buy prepared foods from licensed restaurants or catering companies.

In addition, it will sell products such as clothing, luggage, home furnishings, paintings, sculpture and other art works.

It plans to host live jazz, folk and classical music without amplification on Friday and Saturday evenings.

The wines served are from a wine list of 12 to 24 wineries. At least 75% of the wines will come from Napa Valley wineries and feature Napa Valley appellations.

During the day, they will offer flights of different wines. They also plan tastings of chocolates and coffee.

In the evening, Vine Star will be a traditional wine bar, where customers can order wine by the glass and small plates.

Hospitality and education at Cuvaision Winery

The Cuvaision hospitality team will preview new experiences available at its estate on Saturday, July 17, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

This event includes three mini-experiences: a hike through the vineyards with 2020 Pinot Noir Rosé; a food and wine pairing with 2019 Sauvignon Blanc, En Cigar and 2019 Pinot Noir, Pommard and a seated tasting of three Cuvaision red wines paired with cheeses.

Tickets are $150 for two guests at www.exploretock.com. That includes bottles of Cuvaision 2019 Chardonnay, Méthode Béton and 2019 Pinot Noir, Pommard.

Cabernet Classic coming to Meritage

The first Cabernet Classic will be held at The Meritage Resort and Spa in Napa from Thursday, Aug. 19 through Saturday, Aug. 21. It will benefit the Patron Foundation. The celebration follows the Chardonnay Classic held in May. I mentioned it June 14, but here are more details.

It brings together Master Sommeliers, wine aficionados, industry experts and wineries and will include more than 20 expert-led tastings of 100s of wines.

The weekend kicks off with “Cabernet Sauvignon Seen Through the Eyes of the Antinori Family” on Thursday morning.

Each day’s activities will feature one premier tasting after lunch

- Thursday: Around the World with Cabernet
- Friday: Retrospective of Cabernet Sauvignon
- Saturday: Legends of Bordeaux and Napa

Throughout the weekend guests are invited to taste other varieties.

See details of the schedule at www.meritagecollection.com.

Tickets start at $700 for day passes and $2,000 for weekend passes at www.cabernetclassic.com.

Guests can also buy passes for just the Grand Tasting for $300 where they will be able to experience 30 of the weekend’s wines and meet with the winemakers.

The event will donate $25,000 to the SommFoundation to help provide scholarships for the next generation of winemakers, master sommeliers and wine experts.

Find more information at MeritageResort.com and VistaCollinaResort.com.

Fayard Winery joins Vintner’s Collective

Fayard Winery is the latest company to join the wineries pouring and selling wines at Vintner’s Collective tasting room in downtown Napa. Julien Fayard was the director of winemaking for Philippe Melka for a decade.

Chuckle of the day

A local winery sent out this pitch, assuming that writer would be impressed that its offerings are so expensive and exclusive.

It's serving a lunch that costs $500 per person and includes a five-course menu crafted by a chef from Healdsburg’s Single Thread Farm. Each bite will be paired with 96–100-point wines from the winery.

The release notes: “It’s only fitting that Napa’s most exclusive tasting experience is the brainchild of the valley’s most exclusive brand, (xxxxx) known as the Hermes of wine...The owner has five coveted vineyard plots in Napa [Valley?] (One shares a fence line with Screaming Eagle[!]), and the wines are not sold in any stores or found on any wine lists.”

And I’d never heard of the “most exclusive” winery.

Food and restaurants

More rumors on new restaurants in the Riverfront

Rumors, but fairly credible ones, tell me that the Basalt space in the Riverfront will become another restaurant from Masaharu Morimoto but with more of a pan-Asian flare like Morimoto Asia in Hawaii.

Matt Cordeiro from Corderio's is reportedly taking over the old Pear space for a seafood restaurant.

Assuming that's true, that leaves two spaces to go – the former Fratelli and the Corner.

Solage opens Picobar, a new contemporary Mexican restaurant

Auberge Resorts' Solage in Calistoga has opened Picobar, a poolside restaurant serving modern Mexican cuisine. It joins the existing Solbar restaurant on site.

Executive chef Gustavo Rios has designed the resort's second restaurant as a fusion of his two homes: coastal Ensenada, Mexico and Northern California's wine country.

Its name "pico" means "peak" and the menu focuses on seasonal dishes with ingredients from local and regional purveyors.

The restaurant is part of a comprehensive $30 million property renovation that includes new suites and a redesign of the guest rooms and the pool deck and Solbar's outdoor lounge just before the tony Four Seasons resort opens across the Trail.

Meet Monday Bakery & Café

Monday Bakery has reinstated its lunch program with a weekly rotating lunch menu featuring local flavors of soups, salads, pasta, grilled sandwiches, toasts and more.

See www.mondaybakery.com/cafe. It's open 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily except Wednesday.

Wilfred's Tiki Bar

Wilfred's Tiki Bar is hoping to open in August in the old Burger Fi space on First Street, Napa, where Napa Creek meets the Napa River. The general manager is Michael Cobb, who ran High Roller Tiki Lounge in Solvang.

Chick-fil-A skipping Napa

The Register reports that the Chick-fil-A restaurant proposed for Soscol Square won't be coming to Napa after all.

The company isn't talking but the proposed outlet faced vocal opposition from many community members because of its long support for anti-LGBTQ efforts.

In truth, Napa isn't that big a market anyway, and we're pretty well known for preferring independent restaurants.

A Kohl's department store will anchor the proposed development with other stores.

News from Yountville

Some news from last Thursday's Yountville Sun:

Tina Stevens, a shop selling travel clothing for women has opened in space formerly occupied by Senses by JCB. Cornerstone Cellars will join Stevens in that space come September.

Pancha's Bar remains closed but hopes to open after refrigeration issues are corrected.

Girard Winery closed its tasting room across the street from Pancha's and Ciccio; the winery now has a tasting room in its full winery south of Calistoga on Dunaweal Lane. (Nearby Sterling Vineyards there remains closed due to damage from the fire last year.)

Also gone is Hunter Gatherer in the same shopping complex owned by Hillstone Restaurant Group, which operates R+D Kitchen and Kelly's Fuel and Provisions.

Also, we haven't heard a date for the opening of the burger joint next to Priest Ranch replacing Protea, and it's looking likely that Perry Lang's steakhouse will not reopen.

Finally, the Napa Valley Performing Arts Center at Lincoln Theater remains closed though Napa Valley Museum has reopened.

The arts

Add to the RAD Wall

Young people are invited to practice creating murals in public on Our RAD Wall, a Rail Arts District (RAD) Napa education program. Participants can collaborate on a design, work individually or with mentors to design and paint in predefined spaces on the wall. Supplies, guidance, supervision and equipment will be provided.

They'll meet at Devine Paint Center, 971 Lincoln Ave., Napa.

Music in Napa Valley

Ace & Vine adding music and brunch

Ace & Vine is the latest restaurant in the valley to schedule music regularly. It features a band for new Saturday and Sunday brunches from noon to 3 p.m. The card club action is separate from the restaurant and deck, where you can eat and enjoy the music.

Ace & Vine, 505 Lincoln Ave., Napa, aceandvine.com

Musicians appearing this week in Napa Valley (See details)

Justin Diaz

Farm at Carneros Sunday, July 18, 6 to 9 p.m.

Justin Diaz is a Napa native who spent many years abroad and now is back in the valley playing classic tunes from multiple decades and genres at local venues. He has extensive experience providing high quality atmosphere for events, performing the music of Sinatra, John Mayer, Sade, James Taylor, Al Green and many more.

Carlos Herrera

Farm at Carneros Tuesday, July 13, 6 to 9 p.m.

Carlos Herrera plays Latin music encompassing diverse styles from colonial roots to popular influences, with emphasis on music from Latin America. He plays rumba, bossa, boleros, salsa, merengue and a blend of Cuban rhythms.

Herrera is noted for his guitar music and vocals as well as his improvisations and ability to extemporize.

He hails from Costa Rica where he began his music career at an early age. After many years performing around Latin America with his band, he moved to the U.S., and now lives in Sonoma Valley. He plays solo and with his band at wineries, weddings and private functions.

Rose Winters

Andaz Wednesday, July 14, 5 to 9 p.m.

Songwriter, singer and keyboardist Rose Winters has embraced her adopted hometown of Napa. She performs growling, sassy blues, heartfelt R&B, current hits and classic rock with energy and fun (and a repertoire of a thousand songs.) She also plays jazz, world and alternative music.

She has performed at five-star hotels in California and on stages around the world. She also appears at weddings, reunions, corporate events and wineries, performing both solo and with a full band.

Classes and education

July food enthusiast classes at Upper Valley Campus of Napa Valley College

Classes for food fans continue in person at the Upper Valley Campus of Napa Valley College:

- Saturday, July 24, 10 a.m. to noon: Bubbles & Brunch Vegetarian Style by sommelier Traci Dutton and chef instructor Elena Sirignano. Join in on the fun as you learn while watching them prep, cook and serve a delicious, eye opening vegetarian meal without having to get up at the crack of dawn. Pre-registration is required. $250 per 2-person pod.
- Saturday, July 31, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.: Knife Skills: Making the Cut, taught by chef Savanna Petri. Great cooking is more than great recipes — it's about techniques. In this essentials class, you will learn several basic knife skills and fundamental cuts that will boost your kitchen confidence. You will make salsa to enjoy with fresh tortilla chips, and at the end of class, you'll take home unused cuts. $160 per 2-person pod.

New director at the SBDC

Cathy Balach (shown) has been appointed director of the Napa-Sonoma Small Business Development Center

Mary Cervantes, who served as director since 2014, retired in June, leaving a legacy of accomplishments at the center, which provides low and no-cost services for the business community.

Cathy Balach MBA, MIM, has more than 10 years of experience consulting and mentoring small businesses for the SBDC. She is an expert in online marketing and has worked with hundreds of start-ups and growing businesses for the SBDC in industries including retail, food businesses and nonprofits.

Prior to her work for the SBDC, she launched and managed three businesses in the San Francisco Bay Area. With this new position, she is stepping down as president of Vinjoy Marketing Consulting, which will continue to offer website and online marketing to the North Bay.

Napa-Sonoma SBDC services include one-to-one expert business advising on nearly all aspects of business — marketing, operations, human resources, accounting, and financial management.

The Napa-Sonoma SBDC also offers educational workshops for small business startup and growth. Added last year to provide up-to-date pandemic, loan and grant information is the ongoing SBDC Facebook Live show, which includes interviews with successful business owners and tips from SBDC advisors. This show is offered every other Tuesday in English at 10 a.m. and in Spanish at 11 a.m. at Facebook.

Learn more about the Napa-Sonoma SBDC at www.napasonomasbdc.org.

Tickets are $35 for members and $45 for non-members at napahistory.com. Meet at Goodman Library, 1219 First St., Napa

They are offering an add-on experience of a $30 wine tasting at the new Mia Carta Napa Valley tasting room next to the Goodman Library.

St. Helena Farmers' Market

The St. Helena Farmers' Market is held in Crane Park every Friday from 7:30 a.m. to noon, rain or shine, through Oct. 29.

The wearing of masks is now optional. Market shoppers who have not been vaccinated are encouraged to wear a mask while at the Farmers' Market.

St. Helena Farmers' Market board members will offer samples of stone fruit from market growers from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

Napa County Supervisor Diane Dillon will host an emergency preparedness information table from 7.30 a.m.to noon.

Bring the kids to the kids' story time by market educator Amanda Tuttle at 9:30 a.m.

David Moreland from A&Bee Provisions will talk at 10:30 a.m. on "The Beehive" describing what goes on in the hive throughout the year.

Artisan vendors this week include Brav, Golden Sunset Candles, Hiroko Ishida Ceramics, Napa Dog, Napa Valley Leathercraft, Sherri Gallagher Designs and Soltherepe Beauty.

Bring knives and garden tools for sharpening by The Perfect Edge. Pick up a coffee and pastry at Naysayers Coffee Roasters next to the market under the redwood trees.

Except for bona fide service animals, dogs are prohibited at the market.

For the latest about St. Helena Farmers' Market, visit www.sthelenafarmersmkt.org, or check its pages on Facebook, NextDoor and Instagram or via its newsletter.

Napa City Nights

Napa City Nights returns to Veterans Memorial Park with The Pat Jordan Band, The Highway Poets and Michelle Lambert (left to right) on Friday, July 16, from 6 to 10 p.m.

The amphitheater is along the Napa Riverwalk Promenade, an easy walking from restaurants and shops. Nearby public parking is available. Bring a blanket and a picnic basket and enjoy free entertainment for the whole family.

The Calistoga Market operates year-round. It offers vegetables and fruits, free-range eggs, honey, dried fruit and nuts, herbs, olive oil and cut flowers, as well as fresh seafood, meat, smoked salmon, crepes, quiches and fruit pies. www.calistogafarmersmarket.org

Napa Farmers Market

The Napa Farmers Market takes place Tuesday and Saturday mornings at 1100 West Street (at Pearl).

The Friends of the Market fundraising drive is closing in on its final weeks. This initiative aims to build a diverse community of donors to help support the ongoing food assistance and community educational programs. Donations of any size are welcome, but friends who give $100 or more before July 31 will receive a Friend of the Market canvas shopping bag. To become a Friend of the Market, access vendor details and maps, or sign up for the newsletter, visit www.napafarmersmarket.org.

The main market entrance is at the southwest corner of Pearl and Yajome, but you can also now enter the market from West Street.

Hours are 8 a.m. to noon. While still strongly encouraged for unvaccinated folks, masks are now optional and shoppers can eat and drink.

Except for bona fide service animals, dogs are prohibited at the market.

The Market's CalFresh match and collection of donations for the local food bank continue, but live music remains suspended.

For details, maps and to sign up for the newsletter, visit www.napafarmersmarket.org.
